At West Texas Rehabilitation Center, tradition and community go hand in hand—and few embody that better than Red Steagall and Jake Hooker, the Honorary Chairmen of Round-Up for Rehab.

Red joined the Rehab family in 2003, following in the footsteps of the legendary Rex Allen. He was invited by then-CEO Woody Gilliland, a fellow fraternity brother, who believed Red's character and name recognition would elevate the fundraiser's impact. "It was the best decision I have ever made for the Rehab," Woody later said.

Red quickly became more than a figurehead. "I am so honored to be a part of the team," he shared. "It's a great treasure and a real important part of my life." Recognizing the growing reach of the event, Red brought in his close friend Jake Hooker in 2024.

The success of Round-Up for Rehab is made possible by the dedication of not just Red and Jake, but an entire team of committed leaders. We are especially grateful for our Big Country Chairmen—Randy Carson, Ikie Taylor, and Minor Alexander—and our Concho Valley Chairmen—Jody Frey and Bob Helmers, whose unwavering support helps carry this mission forward across West Texas.

"Jake has a tremendous audience in our part of the world," Red explained. "He understands the livestock producers and he's added a tremendous dimension to the success of Round-Up for Rehab."

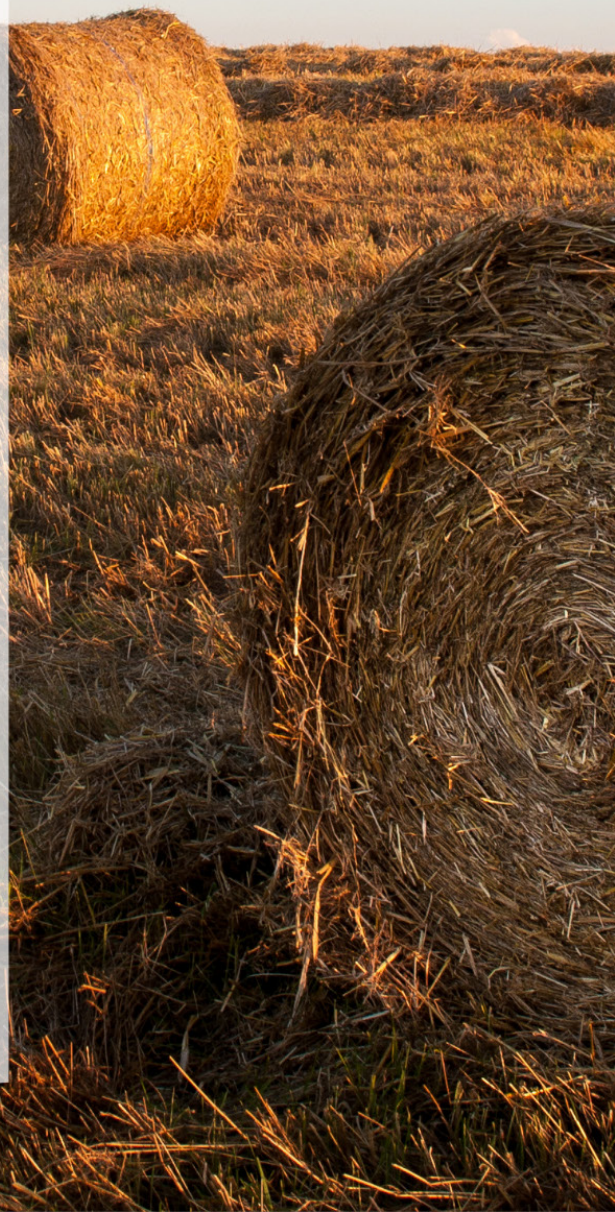

Jake—an accomplished Western swing artist and 2024 Texas Rodeo Cowboy Hall of Fame inductee—feels equally honored. "What an amazing organization... I'm very appreciative to be here. I always tell everyone, anywhere that Red's at—I want to be."

Together, Red and Jake bring authenticity, passion, and deep ties to rural Texas. Their leadership continues to connect the cowboy way of life to a mission built on compassion, healing, and community.

With these two legends leading the way, Round-Up for Rehab remains a powerful force for good—rooted in tradition, fueled by heart.

LEADERSHIP LETTER

BY STEVE MARTIN, PRESIDENT & CEO

We are a few days from the first official day of fall which means milder temperatures, Friday night football around our great state and, of course, our Round-Up for Rehab events.

Round-Up for Rehab began in 1960 when Coke County ranchers Conda and Edna Wylie donated a pen of calves to West Texas Rehab Center to be sold to benefit the patients being cared for at this amazing place. Round-Up is the genesis of our "neighbor helping neighbor" philosophy, and it continues to be one of our key fundraisers today.

The events that make up Round-Up for Rehab enable us to continually see 850 patients each and every day, while ensuring one-third of those patients who have no other way to pay for services, get the help they need. I hope you take the time to read about Red Steagall and Jake Hooker's involvement with the Rehab, and hope you will join us at one of the many events they will attend for food, fun, fellowship, and raising funds for an amazing cause!

We also have some exciting news about our building campaign. As of September 1, we are at $78,609,228 committed to the project, or 92.5% of our goal. We still have work to do as we have $6.4 million left to raise, but we have scheduled ground breaking for February 5, 2026.

It is still not too late if you want to get involved, and through a generous $5 million matching gift, you can actually double your gift to the project.

We are so very close, so contact us now or simply scan the QR code on the next page to be a part of this life-changing project, which will truly be a blessing for West Texas Rehab, our staff, our patients and families, and this entire community! I will continue to keep you updated as we move forward, and we will have a segment on this year's Telethon on January 31, 2026 about our progress.

In our last issue, we began telling you about the folks working in our Foundation. Wade Kirkwood has been with the Rehab for a little over a year now, after spending the better part of his career with West Texas Boys Ranch. He has become a key addition to our Donor Relations department, as well as our Foundation. His knowledge of the agricultural community, and his ability to build relationships with our agricultural partners, has been a blessing to our organization.

Our volunteer spotlight highlights the legacy of Bob Helmers. As a Round-Up for Rehab chairman, he is an active supporter of our ag programs, and is also a board member, trustee, and supports many of our programs related to kids.

Of course, our entire mission is dedicated to helping our patients, and I am proud of the dedication of our board of directors, our staff, donors, and volunteers who work everyday to help our patients achieve the absolute best outcomes possible.

I would certainly ask that each of you keep the Hill country and Concho Valley in your thoughts and prayers. The tragedy those communities and families have had to deal with from the July floods is overwhelming. I pray for peace and healing for these areas of Texas.

May God continue to bless each of you!

Blessings,

Steve Martin, President/CEO

Rehab Summer Camp

Building Confidence and Lasting Friendships

A favorite time of year at West Texas Rehab Center is summer, when we offer camps in Abilene and San Angelo for young patients. These camps provide our pediatric patients a real opportunity to have fun, enjoy the outdoors, eat S'mores, swim, and even fish...a time to just be a kid!

In San Angelo, the camp is held at our outdoor retreat at Lake Nasworthy, and campers revel in several mornings of fishing, crafts, swimming, hayrides, and snacks! For many of these youngsters, this is the first or only camping fun they've ever known.

Both camps could not run without our volunteers, especially the "buddies" that are paired with each camper to help navigate the activities while building lasting friendships.

The seasons come and go, reminding us of our blessings at West Texas Rehabilitation Center...but Summer Time and Camp Rehab is one of our favorites! Check out pictures of all the camp fun on our website at westtexasrehab.smugmug.com.

All of the campers are current patients of the Centers' and have diagnoses ranging from mild developmental delays to extremely involved...all treated by the wonderful pediatric therapists at West Texas Rehab.

Camp Rehab in Abilene calls the Presbyterian Encampment in Buffalo Gap home. Campers enjoy summer camp fun as it's meant to be, specifically designed and adapted including archery, swimming, Taekwondo, and obstacle courses.

BACK IN THE SADDLE

JACK STRICKLIN CALF ROPING
AT THE PRESCOTT RODEO IN 1988

A At 78 years old, Jack Sticklin is living proof that it's never too late to chase what you love — especially if it involves a rope, and a good horse!

Jack has always had a passion for calf roping. It's part of who he is. But at 46, life got busy, and roping took a backseat. For more than 30 years, he stayed off the arena dirt — until a wake-up call changed everything.

In July 2024, Jack underwent triple bypass surgery. The experience gave him a new perspective. Jack said...

“I realized I didn't want to have any regrets, I missed roping more than I ever realized.”

Determined to get back to what he loved, Jack started swinging a rope again. But after a calf ran into his right shoulder during practice, he was left with pain that made even lifting his arm a challenge.

By the time Jack came to West Texas Rehab Center in November 2024, he couldn't swing a rope above his head — something he once did with ease.

His evaluation showed he was dealing with three torn tendons in his rotator cuff, revealed by recent MRIs and X-rays from his doctor in Amarillo. He'd also received a stem cell injection to help with pain and inflammation, which had started to bring some relief.

Although the pain had mostly subsided at rest, Jack still felt it when reaching overhead or behind—two essential movements for roping. But his goal was clear: regain enough strength to rope again.

With guidance and consistent therapy, Jack committed to doing whatever it took. Over the next several weeks, he showed up to each appointment ready to work. By January 2025, his therapist, Luke Lopez, had good news!

“Jack has been coming to therapy consistently and has made great progress. His range of motion and strength have improved, and he's back to riding and practicing roping.”

Now, Jack is back in the saddle — literally — swinging his rope with renewed purpose!
“I just wanted to rope again. And thanks to West Texas Rehab, I can!”

Jack's story is a reminder that it's never too late to get back to what makes you feel alive — and that with hard work, the right care, and a little grit, anything's possible.

With the amazing support of our donors like you, West Texas Rehab never turns anyone away due to their financial circumstances. Jack's treatment plan was not determined by what his insurance would pay...it was determined by how much therapy he needed to reach his full potential and the goals he set. This unexpected setback certainly tried to keep Jack from doing what he loved, but sheer grit and determination kept him going!

NEIGHBORS HELPING NEIGHBORS

In the heart of West Texas, generosity isn't just an ideal—it's a way of life. For more than 70 years, West Texas Rehabilitation Center has stood as a lifeline for patients across the region, offering world-class therapy and care regardless of a person's ability to pay. And for more than six decades, the agricultural community has helped make that possible through Round Up for Rehab, one of the most enduring and beloved fundraisers in WTRC's history.

Conda & Edna Wylie

The origin of Round-Up for Rehab is as humble and heartfelt as the people who built it. In 1960, Edna Wylie visited the Rehab Center in Abilene and was struck by what she saw. At the time, Shelley Smith—the center's lone physical therapist—was doing all he could to serve patients in need. But Edna saw the truth: the facility wouldn't survive without financial help.

Back at the Chadbourne Ranch, Edna shared her concern with her husband, Conda Wylie. It was a tough time—West Texas was still recovering from the drought of the 1950s, cattle numbers were low, and the market was just as dry. Cash was scarce. But the Wylies didn't hesitate. Conda donated a few head of cattle and told Shelley Smith to sell them and use the proceeds to help keep the Rehab doors open.

That simple act of generosity sparked something bigger than anyone could have imagined. Originally called the Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children, the fundraiser quickly gained momentum. Ranchers and ag producers across the region followed the Wylies' lead, donating livestock and supporting the mission in the best way they knew how. Shelley Smith fanned the flame, and the ranching community made sure it never burned out.

Today, Round-Up for Rehab is a powerful, community-driven tradition that fuels patient care across all three WTRC campuses—in Abilene, San Angelo, and Ozona. Each year, livestock shows, auctions, ag events, and rural businesses come together to raise critical funds for therapy services that change lives: speech therapy for a child, physical rehab for a stroke survivor, hospice care for a loved one in their final days.

The West Texas Rehab Foundation ensures that every dollar raised through Round-Up for Rehab is put to work providing care, expanding access, and keeping the doors open for those in need. And with rural healthcare access becoming increasingly limited, that work is more important than ever.

Round-Up for Rehab isn't just a fundraiser—it's a living legacy. From Edna and Conda Wylie's first gift of cattle to today's ag community, it's proof that small herds and big hearts can do extraordinary things. It's about neighbors helping neighbors. Ranchers lifting families. And West Texans showing, again and again that hope thrives where generosity leads.

WADE KIRKWOOD

Ag and Donor Development Coordinator

Among those guiding this effort is Wade Kirkwood, part of the West Texas Rehab Foundation's Ag and Donor Development team. A proud native of Tarzan, Texas, Wade grew up in the ranching and farming communities that helped launch Round-Up for Rehab.

With a degree in Animal Science from Texas A&M University, Wade has spent his career uplifting youth and rural families—first as an Ag Science Teacher and County Extension Agent, and later as Program Director of the West Texas Boys Ranch, where he served for 14 years.

Wade's deep roots in agriculture and nonprofit leadership make him the perfect bridge between the Rehab's mission and the people who continue to sustain it. He's judged livestock shows across the country, served on stock show boards, and earned recognition as a 20 Under 40 honoree in 2015. But perhaps most importantly, Wade brings a passion for rural communities that's both personal and powerful.

A Life of Service

BOB HELMERS' LEGACY WITH WEST TEXAS REHABILITATION CENTER

In the small, quiet town of Mertzon, Texas, a young Bob Helmers was raised with a strong sense of duty and community values that would later define his role as a pillar of support for West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

Today, Bob is not only a donor and board member—he's a living example of what it means to serve with heart, purpose, and deep personal connection.

Bob's journey began in the small towns of Eldorado and Christoval, where he spent his early career coaching young athletes. He later became a petroleum landman, but his life took a deeply rooted turn when he and his wife Sandra settled in Schleicher County.

There, under the guidance of Sandra's family, Bob learned about the life of ranching, raising cattle and goats on the land they loved.

It was ranching that first connected Bob to West Texas Rehab.

"I grew up knowing about the Round-Up for Rehab being in the ranching business,"

"I would donate a cow or goat when I could, but my first real involvement was when I was asked to bring one of my scare goats to the San Angelo Producers Sale," he recalls

Bob and Red Steagall at Producers Livestock San Angelo Sale (2019)

Bob & Sandra receiving the Rehab Staff Award (2010)

Bob receiving a Phil Collins Alamo artifact from Woody Gilland (2013)

Bob volunteering at Rehab Camp (2025)

Bob at Ft. Chadbourne (2021)

That small act of participation sparked a lifelong commitment. Bob was soon invited to serve on the Tom Green County Round-Up for Rehab committee, and he eventually joined the West Texas Rehab Board of Directors, serving as Chairman for several years. Today, he continues to provide leadership and guidance on the Executive Board and as a Foundation Trustee.

"I have seen firsthand the good that West Texas Rehab does for so many," Bob says. "It truly is a first-class organization."

Bob's dedication doesn't stop at board meetings or livestock donations. He's become a powerful advocate for the organization, encouraging others—individuals, businesses, and civic groups—to get involved.

"All you have to do is walk through the doors of the treatment facilities at West Texas Rehab and you'll get it." Bob says. "They do so much for so many folks. And I encourage anyone I meet to do just that."

In 2004, Bob's connection to the Rehab took on a deeper, more personal meaning. His beloved wife Sandra suffered a sudden aneurysm. After critical weeks in a San Antonio hospital and inpatient rehab, Bob knew exactly where to bring her for the next stage of healing—West Texas Rehab.

"They welcomed Sandra with open arms and knew what we needed before I did."

Bob says. "It came full circle for me—the impact that the Rehab makes."

That experience solidified what Bob already knew: West Texas Rehab isn't just a place—it's a lifeline.

For over 20 years, Bob has hosted a local Round-Up Supper at his ranch in Schleicher County, bringing together neighbors and friends in support of the mission. It's a tradition rooted in generosity and encompasses the true meaning of 'neighbor helping neighbor.'

When asked why he continues to give his time and heart to West Texas Rehab, Bob's answer is simple: "It gives me purpose, and I enjoy being a small part of something much bigger."

And through his unwavering commitment, Bob Helmers has become something much bigger himself—a beacon of service, compassion, and inspiration. West Texas Rehab is better because of Bob Helmers, and so are the people of West Texas!
